A26 Engine

Project Alpha. The name alone evokes images of a rocket scientists building an awesomely powerful device. But instead of building an engine for the launch pad, Project Alpha has built it for your long-haul truck. This new engine, designed by a team of the industry's best powertrain-engineers, is called the International® A26.

International® has a reputation for dependable and powerful machines, but the A26 sets the bar even higher, according to Bill Kozek, president of Truck and Parts.

"Project Alpha has fundamentally changed how we design diesel engines. The International A26 has been designed to address the rigorous demands of Class 8 truck customers. It's been tested to extremes and meets a demanding B10 design life standard for an unprecedented 1.2 million miles," says Kozek.

Beyond its incredible lifespan, the new 12.4-liter engine boasts an impressive line of specs:

- Up to 475 Horsepower
- 1,450 lb.-ft of torque
- 600-700 lbs. Lighter than traditional 15L big bore engines
- Improved oil pressure to increase oil service intervals up to 70,000 miles
- 50% reduction in parasitic loss to the water pump

Perhaps the most impressive aspect of the A26 is its significant weight-reduction. Weighing in 55 lbs. lighter than its predecessor and allowing for the reduction of 200 lbs. of vehicle-mounted component weight, the A26 rides like a featherweight but punches like a heavyweight champ, all with less fuel consumption and emissions.

Though just released in late February, 2017, the A26 is no greenhorn. International® has logged millions of real-world test miles in some of the most difficult roads on the continent, including at extreme cold and high elevation. Plus, the A26 includes the industry's best warranty with two years, unlimited miles.
